

CALL FOR CANDIDATES

PRESIDENT WANTED

International Federation of Associated Forms of Life - FIFA™

INDEPENDENT SPECULATIVE AND SYMBOLIC PROPOSAL

Location Planet Earth	Mandate Long term	Start date As soon as possible
--------------------------	----------------------	-----------------------------------

A position that does not yet exist. Perhaps.

The International Federation of Associated Forms of Life is looking for its first President. Its ambition: to federate living beings around a common ground.

Humans, animals, plants, pollinators, forests, rivers, oceans, soils and future generations all contribute to the very possibility of our existence. Yet they do not have the same rights or the same means of representation. This speculative Federation proposes to explore that institutional void.

Your mission

Make the living world visible, representable, desirable and politically unavoidable.

- Bring together actors with sometimes conflicting interests around common rules.
- Help create governance capable of thinking simultaneously about humans, non-humans and their interdependencies.
- Defend the conditions of habitability: water, soils, atmosphere, oceans, food, energy and vital infrastructure.
- Mobilise governments, international organisations, companies, scientists, communities and funders.
- Transform global communication power into regenerative capacity.

“No one can win sustainably by destroying the ground on which everyone must continue to play.”

GOVERNANCE TO BE INVENTED

Chamber of Humans - populations, communities, present and future generations.

Chamber of Other Living Beings - species, ecosystems and ecological continuities.

Chamber of Conditions of Possibility - water, soils, atmosphere, oceans, energy, food and vital infrastructure.

A federator of complex systems

We are looking less for a specialist in the living world than for a person capable of turning diffuse interdependence into a global institutional project.

Essential competencies

Global leadership	Speak to governments, scientists, companies, communities and the general public.
Narrative power	Turn a complex issue into a universal story without oversimplifying it.
Financial capacity	Mobilise significant resources without confusing value with price.
Systems thinking	Understand that a water crisis can become a food, economic, migration or political crisis.
Sense of arbitration	Recognise “offsides”: when private benefit shifts costs onto other living beings or future generations.
Long-term perspective	Think simultaneously about 2026, 2035, 2050 and beyond.

The timeframe of the mandate

The mandate is unusual. Soils do not think in four-year cycles. Neither do forests. Oceans even less so. The phrase “president for life” may be used as an intellectual provocation about the duration of responsibility, not as an institutional status. The project is speculative: its purpose is to raise a governance question that our institutions still address imperfectly.

First objectives

- Make the living world the greatest permanent global event.
- Imagine a World Cup of Habitability: not to rank powers, but to make visible the territories that preserve their conditions of life.
- Create a common language: a yellow card when a critical threshold is approaching, a red card when habitability is destroyed, and “video assistance for the living world” to examine indirect and long-term consequences.

Application

Interested candidates may submit their background, their vision of the living world, the first three decisions they would make, and an answer to this question:

“How can we politically represent those who cannot vote, negotiate or leave the playing field?”

A first candidate has already been suggested.
But the position remains open.
